Concluding contracts is one of the basic tasks of business life. What is the likely influence of different legal forms of companies? How do you draft a sales contract? Which details of your co-contractors are recorded in the Commercial Register? All these questions are related to business law. The EBC*L (European Business Competence Licence) certificate demonstrates business management expertise on an internationally recognized level. Module 3 contains everything worth knowing about corporate and contract law. Grasping the basic principles of business law is the key to understanding business economics and to making sound decisions.
